Personal Statement

Above all, I am a clinician dedicated to patient care. Taking care of my team is also a great motivation since I am heading the radiology department of the largest private non-profit teaching hospital in France. To transmit and share my knowledge is my highest professional motivation and personal credo from the very beginning of my career. This motivation has led me to continuously investigate the fields of teaching and research. Therefore, actively engaged in publishing and reviewing for the most prestigious journal in the field of imaging, I had the opportunity to reach important editorial positions. This has given me valuable experience that will help me in serving as chair of the publication committee.

Thanks to the enormous commitment of our editors-in-chief and editorial board members, ESR has now two well established journals with the flagship European radiology and Insights into imaging with new high impact factors, a testimonial for the rising presence and influence that the journals are having within the radiological community. European radiology experimental will without any doubt follow the same road to success. The role of the future chair of the ESR Publication Committee will be to support the main actors of ESR publications in increasing the visibility and the voice of our journals as well as the electronic educational media already available through ESR connect.

My leadership positions in a major national society (SFR) and in an important european subspecialty society (ESGAR) have given me valuable experience how to combine all necessary scientific, educational, management and diplomatic skills to lead effectively. It would therefore be an honor for me to serve ESR and its members in the role of Chair of the publication committee.
